Forever Families Weekend

for Jewish Families Touched by Adoption
June 11 - 13, 2010
Camp Nah-Jee-Wah · Milford, Pennsylvania

exceptional jewish camping

Join other Jewish families touched by adoption for a weekend of community-building, recreation, education, and fun! Whether your family was formed in part or in whole through domestic or international adoption, Forever Families weekend will bring you together with other families like yours to share experiences, learn from experts and each other, and enjoy each other's company.

Our staff of adoption professionals are also Jewish parents by adoption – so they understand the unique perspective of the Jewish adoptive family. Parents will have the option to participate in workshops such as Children's Books and Stories of Adoption, Identity Issues for Adoptees Approaching Bar/Bat Mitzvah, and Acceptance of Transracial Families in the Jewish Community, while their children participate in age-appropriate activities such as “W.I.S.E. Up workshops” or “Teen Adoptees Advocating for Adoption.”

At the lake, at the pool, on the athletic fields and by the fireside, families will be able to spend time on art activities, participate in team-building activities, or just enjoy a relaxing weekend of summer camp excitement. From young children through teenagers to parents, each group will have opportunities for sharing, having fun, and making meaningful connections.
